

Dear FCC,

As a paying adult customer of XM satellite radio I feel that I am entitled to the most for my money. XM offers traffic and weather reports in my area which are useful to me in my daily travels. Free competition is the foundation that our capitalistic society is based on and I don't want the NAB stifling that for their own competitive gain.

You have already enabled broadcasters to limit competition by allowing big conglomerates increased ownership in radio stations, which has resulted in fewer listening choices and created many copycat stations.

I encourage you to reject the NAB petition 04-160. Make the ownership of these stations strive to make their product better, or they will continue to lose audiences to XM and the internet.
